SATURDAY......NOVEMBER 25, 1876.

MILTON, November 21, 1876.

Editors of the Dispatch: Will you kindly inform us through the columns of your paper who "Clytie" is? her name; yet we see it constantly in books AN INQUIRER.

Clytic was one of the daughters of Oceanus, and was changed into the plant helitropium, says Andrews's lexicon.

THE NEGRO RULES THIS COUNTRY .- The Chicago Times happily hits of the fact that the negro has kept this country in hot water for several generations. The following are its head-lines over the news from Florida, Louisiana, and South Carolina:

"The Noble Nigger-One Little Nigger, Two Little Niggers, Three Little Niggers-Some Niggers, Some More Niggers, and Still Some More Niggers-Niggers White, Niggers Blue, Niggers Gray, Gentlemanly Niggers of all Colors Except Black-A Page wholly Devoted to Niggers, Wholly Niggers, and Nothing but Niggers, so Help — The Nigger "Bosses" of Louisiana's Niggers Enter Majestically Upon Their "Nigging"—Senator McDon-ald and Professor Sumner Emphatically Sour on Niggers in General-The South Carolina Nigger Lawmakers to be Outgeneralled by the Anti-Niggers-Nigger Officers and Nigger Rule to be Permitted so Long as Troops Sustain Them-Florida's Nigger Minority Lose the Courts and Look Hopefully to the Nigger Canvassing Board-The that lies a few inches beyond his reach. Nigger at Home," &c., &c.

THE ONE VOTE WANTED .- A crowd of men were standing on Whitehall street yesterday discussing the election probabilities, when one of them said: "You see Tilden only wants one more vote to elect him. He already has 184; one more vote will do the business." A rough, earnest-looking fellow had listened to the conversation eagerly from the start, and when he heard about the one needed vote he exclaimed : "Wish to the Lord I had known that Tuesday; damn me if I hadn't walked fifty miles to put it in!"-Atlanta (Ga.) Times.

Patrick Heury, in his speech before the Virginia Convention of 1789, during the debate on the acceptance of the Federal Constitution, the powers of the Government being under discussion, said: "Sir, the inflitary power ought not to interpose till the civil power refused. If this be the spirit of your new Constitution that the laws are to be enforced by military coercion, we may easily divine the happy consequences which will result from it. Man is a fallen creature, a fallible being, and cannot be depended on without selflove. Your president will not have the same motives of self-love to impel him to favor your interest. His political character is but transient, and he will promote as much as possible his private interests. * * * In 1688 the British nation expelled their monarch for attempting to trample on their liberties. The doctrine of divine right and passive obedience, said to be commanded by heaven, was inculcated by his minions and adherents. He wanted to possess, without control, the sword and purse. The attempt cost him his crown. This Government demands the same powers. I see reason to be more and more alarmed. I fear it will terminate in despotism." Patrick Henry appears to have possessed a dark forethought of Grantism.

A STRANGE STORY .- A rich lady in the Faubourg St. Honoré recently found her- lower than ever offered since the war. self growing very ill, and the doctor pronounced her to be suffering from some slow poison. She rejected this idea as absurd, but on rising one morning found a glass of water which was usually placed by her bedside to be discolored by a white, filmy powder. On showing this to the doctor he at once declared it to be arsenic. All inquiries failed to detect the culprit, and the next night madame tilled the glass herself, and kept careful watch that no one meddled with it. Nevertheless, in the morning the white powder again made its appearance, and the doctor was fairly at his wits' end to find the real cause. Finally he discovered that his patient was in the habit of reading in bed, and for that reason can-dles were kept burning all night in her room. These candles, of a dazzling whiteness, had been strongly impregnated with arsenic in the bleaching process, and the of November, 1876. arsenic becoming volatilized by the combustion, poisoned the air of the bed-room.

A FIRE-PROOF SUIT .- What is described as a fire-proof suit of extraordinary merit, STATE TAXES. invented by a Swede named Oestberg, has recently been exhibited at Vienna in the presence of the Emperor and several other distinguished personages and men of science. On this occasion Captain Ahlstrum, clothed in the suit, deliberately walked into an immense fire, prepared for the purpose, of wood saturated with petroleum. According to the account given of this test the heat of the fire was so intense that no one heat of the fire was so intense that no one petroleum. ence. On this occasion Captain Ahlstrum, else could approach within eighty paces without being absolutely burnt or scorched, but Ahlstrum walked around in the glowing pile perfectly undisturbed, leaning on the burning wood, and finally, with the same equanimity as well as entire unconsciousness of danger, seating himself snugly on the live coals. After thus remaining in the fire a quarter of an hour the salamander came out as perfectly unharmed as when he

The United States Patent Office received information from the Commissioner of Patents of Great Britain that foreigners have been accorded by act of Parliament the privilege of registering trade-marks there upon the same terms as British subjects. In view of this action of Great Britain our Patent Office, it is announced, will hereafter register trade-marks of British subjects on the same terms and under the same regulations as those prescribed for citizens of this

The Cincinnati Southern Railroad bridge over the Kentucky river is rapidly approaching completion, and is said to be a notable triumph of mechanical and engineering The bridge is 1,125 feet in length, divided into three spans of 375 feet each, and 286 feet above water. The scenery in that locality is the grandest in Kentucky. The bridge and surroundings have been photographed by a Cincinnati artist.

An earnest diver after truth in history has ascertained the fact that Washington used to have his horse's hoofs blacked and polished. Coming just at this time, this important fact will go far toward softening the asperities of the yet undecided political campaign, and do much toward consoling campaign, and do much toward consoling the party under defeat. A party of loungers in front of a Cleveland store were startled by the sight of a negro crashing down through a board awning to the sidewalk. He had one pocket full of eggs, another full of butter, and his arms full of hams. He had been caught stealing, and had jumped out of a thirdstory window.

"Is it so that Tilden's President?" quoth she. "Ye may belave that, Rosie; an' I'm to be the letther-carrier." "Are ye, Patrick?" "Yis," responded Patrick; "an' then I'll bring ye a love-letther every day."

The builder of a church now in course of construction, when the toast of his health was given, rather enigmatically replied that he was "more fitted for the scaffold than for public speaking."

It is roughly estimated that 5,000 western

CLINKERS IN STOVES .- A correspondent asks how to remove clinkers from a stove. Make up a good fire; then place a dozen oyster- or clam-shells or small lumps of lime on the fire, pressing them into contact with the clinkers; then let the fire burn down, and the clinkers will be found so soft that they can be scraped off with a shovel.

Hughes and Mullins, the alleged Lincolnmonument robbers and body-snatchers, who were recently arrested, have been indicted The classical dictionary does not mention at Springfield, Ill., for conspiring to steal her name; yet we see it constantly in books Lincoln's body and for Jarceny. There is said to be no doubt of their guilt. It is now alleged that their object was to bury Lincoln's remains in some secluded place, and to give them up only on payment of a large sum of money. They expected to receive $200,000 for their singularly horrible undertaking. The Mark Lane Express, in its weekly review, again alludes to the small supplies of wheat in the provincial trade. General duliness and a further decline in these markets are announced. The close of Russian navigation will make America their main source of supply for red wheat, and it re-mains to be seen "whether she will ship freely at present prices or await advanced values." The uneasiness and anxieties prevailing in political affairs have caused a revival in local trade. The arrivals of wheat were moderate during the week, and prices were one shilling and sixpence to two shil-

No. 921 Hull street, Manchester, Va. TRUSTEE'S SALE OF A TRULY VALUABLE HOUSE AND LOT ON FOURTH STREET, BETWEEN DECATUR AND STOCKTON STREETS. IN THE CITY OF MANCHESTER, VA.—By virtue of a deed of trust executed to me on the 15th day of January, 1875, and duly of record in the clerk's office of the Hustings Court of the city of Manchester, in Deed-Book volume 1, page 359, I will sell, being required so to do by the holder of a certain note secured by said deed, on THURSDAY, November 30, 1876, at 3:30 o'clock P. M., if fair, if not on the next fair day thereafter (Sanday excepted), that TRULY DESIRABLE HOUSE and LOT as above described. The lot fronts 30 feet on Fourth street and runs back 132 feet, with a FRAMED DWELLING thereon containing five or six rooms, and all necessary outbaildings in good repair. This property is in a respectable neighborhood, near the manufacturing mills, cotton factories, stone sheds, and the Danville shops, and is really desirable as a residence or safe investment, as there is no difficulty in getting good, paying tenants to occupy the house.

TERMS: Cash as to $800 and expenses of sale; the balance upon such terms as may be annonneed at the bour of sale.
